

ENGINEERING SHORT COURSE ESTABLISHED

Will Have Two Terms of Eight Weeks Each—Like Short Course in Agriculture.

GIVES PRACTICAL WORK
Courses in Oxy-Acetylene Welding, Blacksmithing and General Mechanics are Listed.

The faculty of the School of Engineering have established a school for mechanics which will give short courses bearing the same relation to the School of Engineering that the Short Course in Agriculture bears to the College of Agriculture, according to a statement today by E. J. McCausland, dean of engineering. Plans have been made to begin work November 1 for an eight-week term. Another eight-week term will be devoted to this work after Christmas.

The school is intended to be a practical one, designed mainly for foremen and inspectors without much technical education. Students in this course will make use of the city and county machinery in gaining practical experience, Dean McCausland said.

"The work contemplated in the two terms mentioned will take men through all the practical details of laying out work, opening quarries, handling road-building machinery, making repairs and other activities which belong to the work of foremen and inspectors," said Dean McCausland.

The pressing need and great demand for experienced highway workers is the reason given by Dean McCausland for introducing this new school.

"The State Highway Board has put under contract since 1918 over $6,000,000 worth of highway work, much of which will be completed during next year," said Dean McCausland.

"The contemplated $600,000 bond issue for highways will, no doubt, assure a continuous highway-building program for the next generation," he continued. "The School of Engineering is furnishing much of the technical engineering, ability to lay out and design this work. Under present conditions the school is not able to furnish enough men for the minor positions of inspectors of materials and foremen of maintenance. When a contract is under way, the men in charge usually pick out handy men around town, who get their technical experience at the expense of the state. It is hoped we may draw men from all sections of the state where highway work is contemplated for a few months' training in preparation for the activities of next year, and that the state board will co-operate with us."

The courses for the first eight weeks will be oxy-acetylene welding, blacksmithing and general mechanics. A course will also be laid out, covering two terms of eight weeks each, to train inspectors and foremen on highway construction and maintenance.

SECOND REGISTRATION TODAY

Student Voters to Have Another Chance to Register.

Student voters from St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Joplin and Sedalia who failed to register Thursday, were given a second opportunity to do so this afternoon. Registration was held in the west end of Academic Hall, under the direction of the Democratic and Republican Club organizations. All students from these cities who are qualified voters can make affidavits which will be sent to their voting precincts. This registration is necessary to vote November 2.

Students living in St. Louis and Kansas City must appear in person before the registration boards in their wards October 27 in order to insure their names being placed on the registration books, but the affidavit should be filled out and sworn to in Columbia tomorrow.

About 100 students registered Thursday. It is not known how many voters from the cities requiring registration there are in the University.

Provision for taking care of the student vote November 2 is being made. It will not be necessary for any student to go to his home to vote, as all ballots cast here will be sent to the student's home by the committees in charge of absentee voting.

Library to Celebrate Anniversary.

The second anniversary of the City Library will be celebrated some time in November. A program will be arranged by the executive committee. The date has not been decided yet on the account of the election.

The latest in automobile colors will be seen on the streets of Columbia today. Joe Uptegrove, University student, has had his car painted all of the colors of the rainbow but one. Two weeks ago Uptegrove decided that his car was neither useful nor ornamental; the clutch slipped, the rear axle broke, and the brain went bad. The owner thought after such actions, it was entitled to a rest, another debut and a six-colored body.
